Faina Smith M.Ed., MS, Facilitator

Faina Smith brings over 25 years of practical experience to Milton along with a wealth of information based on her work with children, families, and professionals, her thorough understanding of child development, behavior management, communication and her passion for helping parents enjoy their children more, struggle less and have a strong life long relationship with them.

Parenting Balance

Do you question yourself as a parent...
Am I too strict with my child? Am I too lenient?
Is this fight worth fighting?
We will address the most important skills a parent must have. Parents will learn to set limits with their children and listen intentionally to them, leading to increased family harmony.

Temperament

How can your children be so different?
Why is one always happy and the other irritable? Will it always be this way or can they change?
We will explore different temperamental characteristics, demonstrate ways to apply this knowledge to particular children, and introduce effective strategies for dealing with a variety of temperaments.
